

It is in the best interests of the United States to permit the satellite radio firms to continue to broadcast weather & road conditions through their normal programming. To remove this service would be a major blow to the public at large & to drivers who rely on this information. The news media already control much too much information content in this country.